Oahu League Goes to Both Extremes of Baseball—Barney Joy Assaults a Spectator

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Asahi 1, Coast Defense 0.

One of the best games of the year, and one of the worst, fell to the lot of the Oahu League fans yesterday afternoon. Fortunately the good game was the closer, and the bad taste left by the first contest was taken away by a crack-jack battle between the Asahi and the Coast Defenders. An incident of the afternoon was an assault by Barney Joy on a soldier spectator, whom the former claimed had used insulting language to him. Joy was banished from the game by Umpire Stayton, and the trouble, which looked for a minute like a free-for-all, quieted as suddenly as it began.

Corking Contest.
The Asahi-Artillery game was anybody's up to the last inning, and was full of good pitching and snappy fielding. The real thrills were lacking, though, because only twice in the third and sixth, did the army players get a man on third, while, on the other hand, the Asahi's lone tally was due to two battery errors. Lawson struck out three men in the scoring inning, but a pass, which started the trouble, was a wild heave to second by Catcher Kik, and a clean single between third and short by T. Moriama, brought a man across the pan with the run that won the game.

Moriama pitched a splendid game, and his timely hit that brought his brother in from third, further adds to the credit of the victory. He was touched for only four safe ones, none of which went for extra sacks, didn't issue a single pass, and had five strike-outs to his credit. The artillerymen were swinging at the wild ones, and when they did connect, Moriama's support was glibbed. Especially in the outfield did the Japanese hustle to cut off the hits, several good catches by "Mud" Kojima in left, and one beauty by Yuesu, almost off the center field fence, being the fielding features. The latter catch robbed Kik of a legitimate double.

Lawson Effective.
Lawson was also in great form, and only three men hit, one a two-bagger, did he allow. He struck out 12 and walked two, but one of those passes started the big doings in the sixth, so the Lawson-Kik battery can't blame the rest of the team for the defeat.

In the last half of the sixth, it looked as though the soldiers would get a man over, as the score before the Asahi had held the lead a full frame. Hizenbaugh first up, left to left, was forced on the fielder's choice that gave O'Hara life. The latter stole second, and went to third when Applin bounced a slow one at the first baseman, and was put out by that gentleman unassisted. The service fans had been imploring Applin to make a hit, but they were quite satisfied when he advanced the runner, and turned their attention to Shay, the help of the nine gods of war being invoked to produce a single. But Shay lifted one to C. Moriama, and the slide was out.

After that the men went out in one-two-three order in the last three innings, and never looked to have a chance.
Only one error is charged against the Asahi, who played the best game of their career as a baseball aggregation in the Oahu League. The exhibition was a hummer, and, as noted above, sent the fans home with the feeling that the afternoon hadn't been wasted after all.

Open the Limit.
The best said about the first game the better. Dave Desha's poor, crippled, Hawaiians, celebrated the acquisition of B. Joy as a playing member, by putting up one of the rankiest exhibitions ever seen on the local lot. The Stars weren't much better, but the Hawaiians were so rotten that it would have been impossible for any team to lose to them. Joy was put into the box only after his two predecessors had been pounded all over the lot, and his work was wild and woolly in the extreme.

It was while on the third base coaching line that Joy got into trouble, and had he stuck to baseball, and not tried repartee with the wing stands, the disgraceful scene would not have happened. Joy says that a soldier was abusing him, and that he stopped to tell him just what he thought of him. Barney's language needed editing, and he said it again to cross the fence and say it again to Joy, and he was over the barrier, and in a general mix-up in no time. The crowd was too thick for any real damage to be done, and in a moment Joy was hustled protesting through the players' gate. The umpire will make his report of the occurrence to President Chillingworth, and it will be up to the league executive to rule on the case. He has it in his power to suspend Joy for the rest of the season, if he sees fit.

TOWN GOLFERS DOWN VISITORS

The third and final match between the army golfers from Schofield Barracks and the Honolulu garrisons, was played yesterday over the Moanalua course, and resulted in a victory for the six men representing headquarters and town, by a score of three matches one to one lost, with two matches undecided on account of ties at the conclusion of eighteen holes of play. Strictly speaking, these ties should have been played off but a win for Schofield of both of the halved games would not have affected the final outcome of the three matches, since the Honolulu players won the first match at the Country Club by five wins to one match lost and halved the second match at Schofield on Saturday last. Thus, had Schofield won the playoff of the two ties they would still be down by a score of 11 to 7 of the eighteen individual matches played in the three series.

Individual results of yesterday's play are as follows:
Lieut. Snow beat Lieut. Turner by one up for Schofield, and the wins for the Honolulu players were made by Colonel Campbell, who beat Captain Lyon by one up; Captain Hinkle won over Doctor Matthews by the same result, and Dr. Graham took Captain Mount such a pace that the latter resigned the match early in the second round. The halved matches were between Major Smith and Lieutenant Wells and the one between Captain Lincoln and Lieutenant Meale. Lieutenant Snow was in the best of form of all the players, since he made the two rounds in 84 as a total, a score all the more creditable when it is considered that he has been playing but about a year and Moanalua is a fairly strange course to him.

Carnival of Classy Polo Will Open at Moanalua Saturday

THE ALL-HAWAII POLO TEAM.

THIS is polo week. The inter-island championships, the most spectacular sporting contests of the entire year, will start next Saturday, when the yellow of the Fourth Cavalry, and the blue of Oahu, will flash on Moanalua field, itself one of the most picturesque polo grounds to be found anywhere. As in 1912, Kauai will be an absentee, and Oahu, Maui and the Army will make a three-cornered fight for polo honors.

The trophy now rests with Oahu. Last year the same schedule as has been arranged for this year was followed, and as a result both Oahu and Maui defeated the army players easily in the first two games. When the Oahu four met the Valley Islanders in the last match, on which depended the championship, excitement was at fever heat, hundreds of machines being parked around the field, while spectators on foot and in rigs were dotted around the natural amphitheatre formed by the rolling ground which rises from the green plain. Maui took a long lead in the first half of the game, but the Oahu men, playing desperately, tied the score a moment before the ball rang for the end of the game. In the extra period made necessary, Maui was forced to make a safety, and the game and championship came to Oahu. The year before the inter-island event had been called "no tournament," Oahu beating Kauai, Kauai beating the Cavalry, and the Cavalry beating Oahu.

In addition to the three regular championship matches, polo enthusiasts will have a chance to see the famous All-Hawaii team, that campaigned so successfully in California this spring, in action against strong opposition. Saturday, the 23rd, is the date of the final tournament game between Oahu and Maui, and on the following Wednesday, the 27th, the All-Hawaii team will go into action against the pick of the players gathered for the contests. This match should be a hummer, for the All-Hawaii team proved one of the strongest in the country. No less a judge of polo than Malcolm Stevenson, sub of the American International team, said that there were not three teams in the country that could take the measure of the All-Hawaii four.

Last Saturday the Oahu four, Walter Macfarlane, Sam Baldwin, Harold Castle and Walter Dillingham, lined up as a team and took the number of the Whites, 15 to 12. The Blues actually scored 16 goals, being penalized for two fouls, while the Whites were docked half a goal for a cross. The Whites included Arthur Rice, "Sonny" Macfarlane, Lieutenant Peyton, Charley Lucas, Allie Magoon and Henry Damon, who cut in for seven periods.

SATURDAY RESULTS.
Davies & Co. 7, Honolulu Electric Co. 6.
Honolulu Iron Works 4, Hackfeld & Co. 19.
Lewers and Cooke, 15, Ehlers and Co. 14.
Wichman & Co. 3, Advertiser 5.

The games of the Commercial League are creating much interest. The result of last Saturday's game shows the Davies & Co. team still leading, with Hackfeld's moving up one notch to second place, they having occupied the place where the H. I. W. team is now.

The Davies had a hard fight to keep first place in their game with the Honolulu Electric Co. The latter beating by one run. Hackfeld & Co. cut loose, beating the latter team 19 to 4, which is a surprise, as the Iron Works team is supposed to be one of the strongest in the League.

The Lewers & Cooke team is moving up the line in great style, but has no chance of winning the championship. In their game at Athletic Park, Ehlers came near to defeating them in their last effort to gain a few more points in the League standing. Ehlers played their last game this season. Hackfelds have also played the full number of games. This leaves Wichman & Co. had a good streak, putting one over the Advertiser team, winning by a score of 9 to 5 in a stiff contest. This ties the two teams in the percentage column. Each team however has one more game to play, the outcome of which is doubtful.

TWO FOOT RACES RUN YESTERDAY

Foot racing was revived at Athletic Park yesterday, when John W. Cleveland, a long-striding coast artilleryman, beat the redoubtable Soldier King over the 2-mile distance. The race was pulled off between ball games, and it turned out to be one of the best contests of the kind ever seen in Honolulu, Cleveland winning by a scant two feet, his sprint taking every ounce of his falling strength. He collapsed in the arms of his friends, while King pulled up in good condition, but much disappointed and vastly surprised at having failed to pull down the purse and side bet.

The track around the ball grounds measures six laps to the mile, and Cleveland, going out in front set the pace for the first mile. King took the lead at the start of the second mile, and kept it for two laps, when Cleveland again forged to the front for a lap. King passed the line in front for two laps, and it was until the back stretch on the last circuit that Cleveland made his move. The sprint was a heart-breaking affair, and was well worth watching. Time 12 minutes 10 seconds.

Not having a crack at the game made Nigel Jackson nervous, and his talk around the grandstand led to a bet that he could do the same distance inside of 15 minutes in ordinary shoes and trousers. After the second ball game "Jack" took the track and before a couple of hundred fans who stayed to see the wager decided, breezed over the distance in 13:44.25. Jackson ran in long trousers and street shoes, and finished strong, saying that he could have done two minutes better had he been paced or pressed.

DIVING PLATFORM AT THE OUTRIGGER

At a meeting of the directors of the Outrigger Club Saturday afternoon it was voted to set aside $100 for the construction of a diving platform for the use of the members of the organization who heretofore have been obliged to use the raft at the harbor under the direction of A. H. Day, Richard Quinn and Charles Heiser, some of the material to be donated by Walter Dillingham. Upon completion it will be towed to the beach, and anchored off the clubhouse.

CLASSIEST FIGHT CARD FOR MANY MONTHS

Is is the verdict of Honolulu fans that the snappiest, and classiest fight card ever staged in the Islands, was that given by Dick Sullivan at the Bijou last Saturday night. First and foremost, the contestants not only in the main event, but in the semi-wind-up and prelims as well, had been most carefully matched. Also, there was no decision in the Reilly-Donovan affair to haggle and dispute over, a clean knock-out in the twelfth ending the contest in favor of the former beyond question or doubt. One decision, that which gave Piszczek a victory over Hollie Giles in the first round fight, is open to criticism, but otherwise the show went with a smoothness and speed seldom seen in affairs of the kind. Everyone got his money's worth, and in this instance everyone include about 2,000 civilian and service devotees of the sport.

"Wild Bill" Donovan, the young lightweight of the 2nd Infantry, who has been cleaning up all the ring talk hereabouts, found his master in Charley Reilly, a veteran of the squared circle, and ring experience, coupled with fine judgment, proved too much for natural aggressiveness, and an ability to assimilate punishment and come up smiling. Before the fight one critic said that Reilly's heart reminded him of Quater's had said, that if the San Francisco failed to stand off the enemy in one last, desperate defense, he would be down and out for good. Reilly, trained faithfully for the mill, and he showed the effects of good condition and a clear head by giving a masterly exhibition of ring generalship. He felt out Donovan for two rounds, and then proceeded to treat the soldier to a succession of varied punches which rocked the latter incessantly, closing his left eye, and giving him a cauliflower ear which he is likely to carry for some time. Reilly was at his man's head, and although Donovan came back gamely in some of the later rounds, it was apparent that experience was having its innings, and that Reilly was in much better shape. Had the fight been stopped an instant before the knockout punch was delivered, it would have been awarded to Reilly on points beyond question of a doubt.

Donovan opened like a champion, and had a shade in the first round, landing no less than seven blows in quick succession at one stage of this period. In the second it looked as though Donovan had made up his mind that a quick finish was possible, and that he was going to crowd the fighting to the limit. Reilly was over-cautious, but he managed to slip over a stiff left, followed by a right to the neck, right in Donovan's corner, which bothered the soldier considerably, and about evened honors for the round. The third was Reilly's, and the fourth an even break. Reilly showing a fine defense for the body blows which his opponent was trying to get across. In this round Donovan's left eye was almost closed. The fifth and sixth were Reilly rounds, Donovan landing often, but always when the coarser was going away, taking all the sting out of the blows. Donovan made a flash and evened up the seventh, but in the eighth he was very tired, and while hanging on, kept calling to referee Grace to break them. The ninth was all Reilly, a rapid fire of lefts and rights to the face and jaw sending Donovan into the ropes in considerable distress. In the tenth Donovan made a marvelous comeback, putting considerable sting into rights to the head that made Reilly realize that he still had a formidable opponent in the ring with him. This round was about even. The eleventh was a Reilly round, although both men slipped to the canvas. The fighting was fast and furious. Reilly went in to the twelfth on the aggressive from the tap of the gong, and after a short exchange in the center, he forced Donovan to a neutral corner and floored him with a left to the stomach that carried a world of steam behind it. As Donovan crumpled up, Reilly crossed with his right, but the blow glanced off, and had no bearing on the knockout. The soldier was dead to the world the moment that terrible left hand connected with his tender midriff section. At the count of eight he rolled over on his left side, but made no motion to rise, and was carried to his corner, as cleanly knocked out as any fighter in ring history.

Piszczek Lucky.
Walter Piszczek and Hollie Giles fought a 6-round draw, which George McLeod, the third man inside the ropes, called a win for the former. There was no question of a victory for the colored scrapper, but he was certainly entitled to an even break, for in the fifth round he overcame the slight lead which the First Infantryman had gained in the third and fourth; the first and second rounds having been an even break. The sixth was also an even round, Piszczek, although on the aggressive, being very wild. Giles' face when McLeod held Piszczek's glove was a study in black and surprise. He took it well, however, and walking to the front of the ring, said that he would like air-fight chance at Mr. Piszczek or a fight with Mr. Kilmer. For a man that got the worst of the ruling, Giles

DRAWINGS MADE FOR CONSOLATION TENNIS TOURNAMENT AT 'Y'

The names of the eight men eligible for the Y. M. C. A. consolation tennis tournament were drawn this morning, and play in this event will start Wednesday afternoon, the finals of the original tournament being down for settlement tomorrow.

The consolation drawings resulted as follows:
Taylor vs. Heinrichs, Small vs. G. Marshall, Robinson vs. Watt, Wine vs. Cramp, Cross vs. Johnston, Osa vs. Evans, Hannestad vs. Urtice vs. The two byes will play together in the second round.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock the two semi-finals of the "Y" tournament will be started, Purvis playing Guard, and A. Marshall going against Hoogs.

Purvis sprang the surprise of the tournament, by putting out Baldwin, his effective and deadly accurate driving doing the work. Hoogs' bad ankle is practically well again, and it seems likely that he and Guard will fight it out for final honors.

The second tournament for the Club Cup, a handicap singles fixture won Saturday by L. King, a scratch player, King defeated L. M. Judd, rated at over 20, in a thrilling five-set match, the score being 6-3, 6-4, 5-7, 2-6, 6-0.

Judd had one leg on the cup, and as it becomes the property of the player winning it three times, he would have had a commanding lead had he been successful in the tournament just ended. He made a grand brace in the third and fourth sets, after dropping the first two, but the pace and the handicap proved too much, and King took the deciding set with ease. Both Judd and King now have a single win to their credit.

R. Graham and W. Marshall were the semi-finalists, the former being beaten by Judd, while the latter failed to play in the tournament. The tournament was a great success, 25 players taking part.

G. R. Hemenway has reached the semi-finals of the Hall Cup tournament of the Manoa Tennis Club without playing a single match. He first drew a bye, and has been given two matches by default, so he now is to play the winner of the Harnes-Rietow match, for a place in the finals.

Several matches in this tournament were decided Saturday. In the third round, Seere beat A. L. Andrews, 6-3, 6-3, and then lost to Jack Guard, 6-2, 6-3. The score of this last match hardly shows its class, as most of the games were decided by a single point. Guard is playing in two tournaments at once, and is in great form. It looks as though the cup contest should be between him and Barnes, who already has one leg on the trophy. Barnes defeated Bowen, and Beardmore won from Ross, 6-2, 6-2. This leaves Beardmore and Guard in the semi-finals in the lower half of the draw.

showed a cool head. A main event between these two would be a good card.

Bud Roundtree and "Smiling" Pinnell fought a 4-round draw that was full of action from gong to gong. Pinnell looked pale and unhealthy when he entered the ring, and didn't show to advantage in the first frame.

In the second he stalled for the first half minute, and then gave Roundtree all the latter wanted in the exchange.

Van Leoni's Ragtime Band furnished slow music when the "dead" were being carried out, and otherwise, made a pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment. The close harmony stuff made quite a hit with the regulars.

WILD PITCHING COSTS PUNS CONTEST

HONOLULU LEAGUE.

H. A. C.	W	L	Pct.
Punahou	1	0	1.000
All-Service	0	1	.000

SATURDAY'S GAME.
H. A. C. 5, Punahou 3.

The few fans who turned out to witness the Punahou-H. A. C. game at Motioli Saturday, were given as fast and as "ricat" a game as any one could reasonably ask for. The entire game occupied only one hour, and seven minutes. There was not a dull moment in the whole game, and both teams were on the jump every minute.

Saturday baseball is an event in Honolulu again, and unless it is given better support, the teams can hardly be expected to play gilt-edged ball. Certainly the games of the first two Saturdays show that the public should patronize the contests.

Wildness on the part of the Punahou pitcher cost the amateur Saturday's game. Inman gave four bases on balls, hit one man, and made a wild pitch, and an so often happens, each base on balls resulted in a run. With Punahou fielding excellently, Inman could have relied on his fielders more than he did. Inman did well at the bat, however, his home run in the first inning giving Punahou a good lead. It was a long drive between right and center, which last fielding would have cut down at least one base. Barney Joy drew one to the fence in almost precisely the same spot but he was put out at third by ten feet by a pretty relay from Brown to C. Hoogs, to W. Hoogs.

Opens With Homer.
The game opened with a single from Billy Hoogs. He was neatly sacrificed by brother Cyril, and though Hemenway flew out, scored on Inman's home run. Punahou again had a chance to score in the second, when Castle singled, and after having stolen second easily, was put out when he fell over the bag.

The H. A. C. got started in the third on Winder's fluke hit. He was forced at second by C. Moriama, who in turn stole second and scored on Bushnell's hit to centerfield. Brown threw well to the plate, but Inman intercepted the ball, and threw to Schuman, who dropped the sphere and lost his man.

H. A. C.'s Busy.
In the fourth, Honolulu scored one. Hampton was passed, and stole second. He was scored on a hit by T. Moriama down the left field line, with two down in the inn. Honolulu scored two on two bases on balls, a wild pitch, and Joy's long double to right center.

In the sixth the reliable Hampton again came through. He succeeded in getting hit, was safe on second on a dropped ball by Hemenway, and scored on Hughes hit.

In the seventh Punahou scored one on errors by H. A. C. and with some down, looked to have a good chance, but out by Castle, Schuman and W. Hoogs ended their hopes.

After this both teams played at tight ball, and there was no further scoring.

Umpires Stayton and Bruns did their work well, and neither team questioned their decisions in any instance.

'CHUBBY CHARLIE' PULLS A NEW ONE

Charlie Murphy, the Chicago baseball magnate, says that rich men make poor team managers. Charlie points out the fact that Frank Chance is worth a couple of hundred thousand dollars, and that Tinker is worth at least half as much. "And I notice that Frank's team is at the bottom of the American League and Tinker's is at the bottom of the National," says Murphy.

Ever a Poor Man.
Charles admits that he picked Johnny Evers as manager of the Cubs for the simple reason that Evers is "a poor man who will work hard for his money."

Yes, But.
Some reasoning in that, isn't there? What a lot of old loaders our financiers are! Not one of them will work more than twenty-four hours a day, even when business is good. While Charlie is at it, why doesn't he go the whole way in proving his theory? He could get a $135-a-day laborer to command the Cubs, and by raising his salary judiciously, not enough to lead him into habits of indolence and luxury—say to about $135 a day—get one of the hardest-working managers in the business.

There's One Drawback.
The only trouble with Charlie's argument is that hard work doesn't always produce the goods, and that men who have things sometimes bustle to get more. Under Charlie's financial "poor" manager the Cubs are in third place.

Cholera is reported to have developed at Bemes-Ziget in Hungary near the Serbian frontier.
